i Aberdeen Festivals

True North. Sound. Spectra. Look Again. Even the names of these festivals conjure up a different kind of place and it's true to say that the festivals are especially rooted, in the people, in the culture and in the very location.

Aberdeen Festivals represents 11 of the region's major cultural festivals. The festivals work alongside each other to collaborate on one-off performances, grow audiences and strengthen Aberdeen's cultural sector.

Aberdeen Festivals is made up of some of the biggest and best festivals Scotland has to offer. With world class performances and international premiers, the diversity of festivals will run throughout the year, showcasing the best talent from arts and science to music and dance

i Dinner and Drinks?

Musa

Where better to stop for dinner pre or post gig than Musa?

Musa is a restaurant, art gallery and live music venue in the merchant quarter of old Aberdeen.

A haven from conformity and mundane, where fresh, contemporary food lives alongside cutting-edge art and live music against the canvas of a 19th century church.

The eclectic menu fuses world inspired cuisine with quirky interpretations of Scottish staples. They fiercely advocate an artisanal, old world approach to food, focusing on local produce from small Scottish suppliers. They are also available for private events and host Bespoke Beer, Wine, Whisky, Gin Events and Dinners.

Tippling House

The Tippling House serves up casual fare in intimate surroundings. A menu of home-cooked bar snacks such as Scotch Eggs and marinated meats, complements a full a la carte offering using only the best in local produce and Scottish suppliers. As well as finishing runners-up in the Observer Food Monthly Awards for two years running, they've also gained a TripAdvisor Certificate of Excellence and a number of awards for their bartenders, including Scottish Mixologist of the Year and Scottish Craft Spirits Enthusiast. The Tippling House was subsequently added to renowned author Peter Irvine's 'Scotland the Best - 12th Edition'.

Orchid

Orchid is Aberdeen's home for discerning drinkers. They are fully dedicated to raising the standards of mixed drinks and cocktails for not only Aberdeen, but Scotland and the United Kingdom as a whole.
